

IDSOG

2017 IDSOG Trainee Scholars

The Infectious Disease Society for Obstetrics and Gynecology (IDSOG) awarded 17 individuals a grant for the purpose of trainee scholarships to sustain and expand the membership to include young clinicians and investigators (students, residents, fellows and junior faculty).

The 2017 Trainee Scholarship Awardees are:

- Tali Azenkot University of California, Davis School of Medicine
- Lisa Bebell, MD. Massachusetts General Hospital
- Jodie Dionne-Odom, MD University of Alabama at Birmingham
- McKenna Eastment, MD, MPH University of Washington
- Rachelle Govia, MD University of Manitoba
- Benjamin Harris, MD, MPH. Duke Health
- Teenus Jayaprakash, PhD University of Calgary
- Kartik Kailas Venkatesh, MD, PhD . BWH-MGH Integrated Residency Program
- Erica Lokken University of Washington
- Rachel McDiehl. Emory University School of Medicine
- Jennifer McKinney, MD, MPH University of Colorado
- Samisiya Ona, MD BWH-MGH Integrated Residency Program
- Annalisa Post, MD Duke Medicine
- Jennifer Qin Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine
- Emily Reiff, MD Duke Medicine
- Michelle Sabo, MD, PhD. University of Washington
- Clara Van Ommen The Univeristy of British Columbia

Testimonials:

"I had a fabulous time and met many more potential mentors than I thought possible at a conference."

"It was an honor to be selected for the scholarship program! Thank you."

"I am thankful for the opportunity the IDSOG gave me in offering me the scholarship. I will absolutely share my experience with my fellow residents!"

"Attending IDSOG 2017 as a Trainee Scholar was a great experience. The opportunity to network and learn from clinician-scientists for 3 days was integrally important to my training as an epidemiologist."